appropriate height and width for resizing a bitmap in Android? I am creating a gallery where you will be able to zoom out to all points of the image. I've set the bitmap to the size of 960x720. The problem is that when the image is zoomed out it becomes too small. A few pixels at the bottom look stretched and the image is not very sharp. I've tried setting the Bitmap to be 960x600 which makes the problem even worse. Is there any way to set a good size for the bitmap when it is zoomed in? I've tried making the bitmap the same size as the original image (which has more or less the same size at any zoom), but it does the same thing. Any ideas? A: Use this listener to zoom out your bitmap when zoomed in.

mScaleDetector = new ScaleGestureDetector(mContext, new ScaleListener());

where mContext is your Context and ScaleListener is as follows.

public class ScaleListener extends SimpleOnScaleGestureListener { @Override public boolean

---

```
onScale(ScaleGestureDetector detector) { mScaleDetector.on Scale(detector.getScaleFactor()
, detector.getFocusX(), detector.getFocusY()); return true; } @Override public void o nScaleEnd(ScaleGestureDetect or detector) { // TODO Auto-generated method stub
zoomed = false;
image.setZoom(1f); } } Here is a cool way to zoom/center the image. 6d1f23a050
